LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL

THE SOUTH CAROLINA STATE LIBRARY

TO: The Honorable Richard W. Riley, Governor of South Carolina, and to the Honorable Members of The General Assembly of South Carolina.

This has been a year of uncommon accomplishment for the State Library, a year in which giant strides have been taken to improve the quality and dimension of library services to the State and its citizens. With these achievements in mind, it is my pleasure to submit the report of the South Carolina State Library for 1984-1985.

In the face of budget and personnel constraints, the State Library had perhaps its greatest year. After much planning, development of a statewide library and information network has begun. Upon full implementation of this automated network, South Carolina will have the most effective system in the nation for delivery of library services to its citizens. On the legislative front, two new pieces of library legislation were passed by The General Assembly; the first recodified the state library statutes and the second provided for library user confidentiality.

These are only highlights of what was a demanding and exciting period in the history of the State Library, an agency devoted to excellence in service and quality of performance.

Respectfully submitted,

Timothy G. Driggers

SOUTH CAROLINA STATE LIBRARY

SOUTH CAROLINA STATE LIBRARY

I. Administration

The Director is responsible for the operation of the South Carolina State Library. She is employed by and is responsible to the Board of the State Library.

A. General Administration

Plans development and extension of library service; establishes and reviews policies; prepares and administers the annual budget; administers state and federal aid for libraries; promotes the extension and improvement of library service; recommends library legislation.

B. Library Interpretation

Interprets the objectives and functions of the statewide library program; plans and carries out a statewide program of publicity and public relations designed to publicize South Carolina libraries and to make the general public aware of library services; publishes newsletters and reports.

II. Technical Services

Acquires and makes available all materials used in the library program; catalogs and classifies books, serials, pamphlets, and non-book materials; purchases and receives all materials; receives, stores and distributes periodicals and newspapers; classifies and/or catalogs all state and federal documents received; prepares all materials for use and maintains the book collection; uses OCLC/SOLINET bibliographic computer network for cataloging and retrospective conversion; monitors development of state data base.

III. Field Services

A. General Field Service

Fosters the development and improvement of public library services; assists local officials, librarians, trustees and citizens through field visits, surveys and correspondence; supervises

State Aid for public libraries and LSCA Title I grant programs; monitors all public library projects funded from state and federal funds administered by the South Carolina State Library.

B. Career Education
Provides workshops and training programs for public and institutional library employees; supervises the certification program for public librarians.

C. Library Services for the Disadvantaged
Provides consultant service to local libraries engaged in, or planning, projects in this area; administers grants and supervises local projects; reports on and evaluates the program; coordinates literacy programs.

D. Audio-Visual Service
Provides a film loan service to qualifying public and institutional libraries and trains staff in use of films as a means of extending the informational resources of the local library; selects and maintains film collection and A-V equipment; prepares annual film catalog.

E. Library Services for Children
Provides assistance and training for public library staff to enable them to better serve children and parents; coordinates the Early Childhood Media Clearinghouse; serves as liaison to other agencies concerned with child welfare and education.

F. Institutional Library Services
Plans and administers a program to establish, develop and improve library service in state institutions; supervises the library program in individual institutions and provides consultant service for library development in all institutions; administers federally funded grant-in-aid projects.

G. Public Library Construction
Provides consultant service in planning of public and institutional library buildings; advises library boards, library administrators, and architects on state and federal regulations and procedures; administers federal LSCA Title II grant program and supervises construction projects receiving grant funds.

IV. Reader Services

A. Reference Service
Provides reference and research services to State Government, State Government agencies, and State employees; performs on-line computer data base reference and bibliographic searches; maintains and services federal document collection and grants research collection; selects books and other materials to be added to the general reference collection; prepares and publishes a monthly bibliography of new acquisitions and prepares special bibliographies.

B. Interlibrary Loan Service
Provides statewide reference and interlibrary loan service to supplement local library resources; supplies materials and answers reference requests for libraries throughout the state; supervises In-WATS communications network; uses OCLC/SOLINET bibliographic computer network for interlibrary loan and reference; provides consultant service to local libraries in the development of reference services and collections; plans and provides workshops to increase the effectiveness of library employees engaged in reference services.

C. Interlibrary Cooperation
Promotes cooperative activities and sharing of resources by all South Carolina libraries; plans and administers LSCA Title III grant program and monitors local projects.

D. South Carolina Library Network
Plans and develops computer-based statewide library network and communication system to facilitate sharing of library resources and services; provides consultant service to local libraries in the automation of library functions, conversion of bibliographic records to machine-readable form, and resource sharing activities.

E. State Documents Depository System
Coordinates the South Carolina State Documents Depository System by collecting, cataloging, and distributing to designated affiliate libraries the publications of State Government agencies and institutions; provides consultant and supervisory service to depository libraries; promotes and publicizes document services; prepares the quarterly checklist and annual index of state documents.

V. Service to the Blind and Physically Handicapped
Plans and administers library service to the blind and physically handicapped; maintains liaison with the Library of Congress's National Library Service for the Blind and Physically Handicapped; maintains records of eligible borrowers and of materials and equipment on loan; provides guidance to readers in selection of books; supervises five browsing collections of talking books in local public libraries; conducts public information program to make potential users aware of service.

Historical Synopsis

1929...1943...1956...1969...1985.... These years mark the key events in the development of the South Carolina State Library. It was in 1929 that the General Assembly passed legislation authorizing establishment of a state library extension agency. The legislation was the result of years of work and lobbying by a group of private citizens led by several outstanding women - Mary E. Frayser, a rural sociologist at Winthrop; Lucy Hampton Bostick, librarian of the Richland County Library; and Charlotte Templeton, librarian of the Greenville County Library.

No funds were appropriated for the library extension agency, designated the "State Public Library Association"; but a State Library Board was named. Grants from the South Carolina Library Association and the Rosenwald Foundation enabled the State Library Board to employ a field agent for three years from 1929 to 1932 to assist towns and counties in the development of public libraries. In 1934 a citizens' conference on the library needs of South Carolina was held at Clemson College which resulted in the formation of the South Carolina Citizens Library Association.

The first statewide library program was carried out under the Works Project Administration from 1935 to 1943. The WPA's objective was to provide each county of the state some measure of areawide public library service. When the WPA project began there were only three counties in the state with countywide library service. There were eighteen local libraries with incomes of at least $1,000 and twelve others receiving "some" support from public funds. There were twenty-one counties without a tax supported library in their borders. The WPA State Library Supervisor served somewhat like a state library extension agent in planning, supervising, and stimulating library development. The program resulted in bookmobiles being purchased and put into operation in twenty-three counties, and public library service in some form was made available in every county. In 1943, when the WPA project closed, many of the public libraries established under the project were continued on local tax support.

For more than ten years the State Library Board had endeavored to secure state funds for a library program. Because of its activities, the agency which was eventually created was known as the South Carolina State Library Board for more than twenty-five years although legally authorized as the "State Public Library Association". It was the disbanding of the Works Project Administration in 1943 - in the midst of World War II - that finally brought the state agency into being. The State Library Board inherited the WPA assets and was given the first state appropriation ($3,000) to operate for the last months of 1942-43. Nancy C. Blair, former WPA State Library Supervisor, served as Executive Secretary of the State Library Board from 1943 to 1946.

The first full year of operation for the state library extension agency was 1943-44, the General Assembly having appropriated $15,000 to employ staff and to initiate State Aid to county libraries. At the time of the establishment of the State Library Board's first office, there were twelve county libraries with professional librarians and fourteen other county libraries and one regional library established under the WPA program. There were 879,794 people, forty-six percent of the state's population, without public library service. The ownership of books among public libraries was three-tenths per capita, and the total expenditure for public library service was fourteen cents per capita.

The State Library Board initiated its program with emphasis on State Aid to public libraries and a goal of statewide public library service. Under the leadership of Estellene P. Walker, head of the agency from 1946-1979, a master plan for library development was devised which aided in the establishment of county and regional libraries which now serve all forty-six counties. The pattern of unified library systems, each legally established and governed by a single library board, made possible a good level of service by eliminating expensive duplication and overhead and by sharing resources and personnel. During the first twelve years of the State Library Board's program, emphasis was placed on the extension of public library service and on its legal establishment. The objectives were to create a strong legal base for public library service in the state, to emphasize local initiative and local support, and to create an understanding of the benefits of public library service and an acceptance of the cost of that service.

In 1956, when the federal Library Services Act was passed, Governor George Bell Timmerman, Jr., issued an executive order charging the State Library with administering and implementing within the state the library programs provided for in the Act. Through this Act, the agency's functions were expanded to include service to the blind and physically handicapped, development of library service in state institutions, and interlibrary cooperation. The original LSA/LSCA programs helped to remedy major deficiencies - units of service too small for economical service, a shortage of qualified professional personnel, inadequate book collections, and inadequate library housing. The funding of LSCA Title II (Construction) in 1964 also made possible a permanent home for the agency that had occupied a series of rented quarters. Partially as a result of the First Governor's Conference on Public Libraries in 1965, the General Assembly appropriated matching funds to make possible the construction of a new building for the State Library Board through the Library Services and Construction Act. The new building at 1500 Senate Street was occupied in February 1970.

On July 1, 1969, the agency acquired a new name and new responsibilities. Legislation passed by the General Assembly in 1967 redesignated the State Library Board as the South Carolina State Library and made it responsible for public library development, library service for state institutions, service for the blind and physically handicapped, and library service to state government and state government agencies. Since 1969, the State Library has had a dual role. As the library extension agency, it provides a staff of consultants to assist public and state institutional libraries in strengthening services, maintains a comprehensive collection of books, documents, periodicals, films, and other materials to supplement local library holdings, operates a reference and interlibrary loan service to provide information not available at the local level, and administers state and federal aid to libraries. As a reference and research library for state government, the State Library supplies legislators, officials, research staff, and state agency personnel with the facts, statistics, or technical data required for planning and decision-making. It answers questions, lends books and materials, researches issues, prepares bibliographies, collects state and federal documents, and provides information about legislation and programs of other states and the U.S. government.

Because county libraries were originally established by individual enabling acts passed by the General Assembly, the effects of the 1975 Home Rule Act upon local legislation necessitated passage of a statewide library act. In 1978 the Legislature amended the Home Rule Act to require counties to provide library systems. Act 564 (S.C. Code, 1979 Supp., Sec. 4-9-35 et seq.) stated:

> "The General Assembly finds that county public libraries make a substantial contribution to the education and recreation of the residents of the state and merit the continued interest and support of state and local government."

Through the years the State's financial support for public libraries has grown significantly. Beginning in 1943 with only $200 per county system, State Aid increased to $1,500 per county by 1952. Years of effort climaxed by the 1965 Governor's Conference on Public Libraries resulted in the change to a per capita basis for State Aid. From twenty cents per capita ($69,650) in 1966-67, State Aid increased in gradual steps to $1.00 per capita or $3,121,820 beginning in 1984-85. With local, state, and federal support, South Carolina now has countywide library service in all forty-six counties. Total library support for 1984-85 was $1.00 per capita. Bookstocks have reached 1.46 per capita, still well below the interim goal of two books per capita.

Other milestones in the growth of the State Library and the improvement of library services to citizens of the state include the establishment in 1973 of the South Carolina State Library for the Blind and Physically Handicapped which now serves some 8,000 registered borrowers, and the 1979 South Carolina Governor's Conference and the White House Conference on Library and Information Services which mobilized public support for libraries, focused on the special needs of the handicapped, and stimulated interest in library cooperation. Also in 1979 the State Library appointed the Task Force on Library Automation and Networking to begin investigation and planning for a statewide bibliographic network. Act 348 of 1982 made the State Library the official state documents depository and authorized the establishment of a system of regional depositories in existing libraries.

The South Carolina State Library exists to serve citizens, libraries, and government. Its goals are to provide the library services and resources needed by the people of South Carolina and to give every individual access to the informational resources of the state. Whenever possible these responsibilities are met by means of programs designed to strengthen and improve the public and state institutional libraries which serve the public. When economy or efficiency so dictate, the State Library serves library users directly, as in service to state government or service to the blind and physically handicapped. An ongoing objective is to encourage cooperative activities and sharing of resources by all South Carolina libraries.

Highlights of 1984-85

1984-85 was another milestone year in the history of the South Carolina State Library. Outstanding among many important events were the passage of new State Library legislation and the successful planning of the South Carolina Library Network. On June 25, 1985, Governor Dick Riley signed into law Act 178 of 1985 which reauthorizes all functions of the South Carolina State Library. The act spells out completely the authority for existing programs and is similar to legislation that has recently been enacted in many states.

The new act, which replaces legislation last revised in 1969, includes a mandate to serve state government, state institutional libraries, and public libraries. It incorporates regulations governing the use of state aid funds for public libraries and certification of public librarians. The powers and responsibilities of the State Library Board and the duties and qualifications of the State Library Director are specified. In addition, it authorizes the State Library to administer and implement within the state all library programs provided in the federal Library Services and Construction Act (LSCA).

The legislation authorizes library service to the blind and physically handicapped and services to special groups. It encourages interlibrary cooperation and resource sharing among all types of libraries, and allows the State Library to provide interlibrary loan service to academic, technical and special libraries, in addition to the longstanding service to public and state institutional libraries.

The act provides the legal basis for the South Carolina Library Network, a statewide computer-based network to serve all types of South Carolina libraries and state agencies, which is presently being developed by the State Library.

Recodification of the State Library legislation was necessary to enable the agency to carry out its mission of service to state government and libraries effectively. Previously the State Library operated under a variety of authorizations found in state and federal laws and regulations, executive orders, budget provisos, and tradition. A state library extension agency was originally authorized in 1929 and first funded in 1943. Its name was changed from the State Library Board to the South Carolina State Library in 1969.

In adopting the new legislation, the General Assembly found that:

"(1) libraries are an integral part of the State's educational system and constitute a cultural, informational, educational, and recreational resource essential to the people of this State;

(2) library services must be widely available throughout the State to bring opportunities for reading, study, and free inquiry within convenient reach of the people; and

(3) providing and supporting adequate library services is a proper and necessary function of government at all levels as an integral part of the government's responsibility for public education.

It is the policy of the State:

(1) to promote the establishment, development, and support of library services for all of the people of this State;

(2) to provide a library research facility to serve as a resource for the libraries of the State and to support the research needs of state government personnel; and

(3) to encourage cooperation and resource sharing among all public, academic, school, and special libraries throughout the State in order to provide the widest possible access to the library and information resources of the State."

The sponsors for the State Library legislation included Representatives Tom Mangum, Crosby Lewis, Eugene Stoddard, Alex Harvin, Sara Shelton, Harriet Keyserling, M. D. Burriss, Parker Evatt, James Lockemy, and John Tucker, Jr.

One of the most exciting and challenging developments ever to take place in the history of library service in South Carolina occurred during 1984-85 with the planning and design of an automation system for the South Carolina Library Network. The State Library, with the assistance of the Task Force on Library Automation and Networking, had been studying automation and networking possibilities for several years. The State provided planning money in FY 84 and FY 85; and an automation consultant, Rob McGee of RMG, Inc., was employed to assist with a year of intensive planning and investigation of automation systems. The funding of the Library Services and Construction Act for 1984-85 enabled the State Library to put together a package of state and federal funds for the purchase of an automation system. The 1984 General Assembly appropriated initial operating funds for 1985-86 as well as a supplemental appropriation to provide the communications network and computer terminals to bring public libraries into the proposed network. A Network Project Team composed of State Library staff members devised a five phase scenario for network development. The necessary approval was obtained for the plan from the Division of Information Resource Management, and a detailed Requirements Report outlining specifications for a sixteen function automation system was prepared. With the help of the State Materials Management Office, a Request for Proposal was issued on April 19, 1985. Nine national automation vendors responded to the request. A thorough evaluation of the proposals was made by State Library staff members and the automation consultant. By the end of the fiscal year, the choice of vendor had been made and contract negotiations were underway.

The purpose of the South Carolina Library Network is to provide better access to the State's total library and information resources for all the people of South Carolina. The long range goal is to develop a statewide nework to link all libraries in the State. The first phase of network development will involve the implementation of an automation system at the State Library which will provide an online public access catalog, automated circulation, and interlibrary loan. The second phase of network development will provide for installation of a communication system to provide remote access to the catalog and interlibrary loan system for public libraries and State agencies. These developments as well as the automation of the Library for the Blind and Physically Handicapped should occur in 1985-86. Long range plans call for additional system functions to be implemented for the State Library, including acquisitions, reference information, AV materials and equipment booking, and newspaper indexing. Eventually, collections other than those of the State Library will be added to the database, with statewide locations and holdings. Proposed components include a union list of serials, state documents, federal documents, newspapers, and South Caroliniana collections.

In addition to the State Library legislation and network development, many other exciting events took place during the year. Act 108 of 1985 provides for the confidentiality of library registration and circulation records, gives guidance to library personnel in dealing with confidential records, and establishes a legal procedure to be followed when requests for confidential information are received. The act was sponsored by Senators Verne Smith, Nick Theodore, David Thomas, Joe Wilson, and Theo Mitchell. It was ratified on May 21 and signed by Governor Riley on May 23. A joint resolution of the General Assembly approved on May 15 and signed by the Governor on May 21 deleted the certification program for public librarians from the Sunset Review procedure.

The Library for the Blind and Physically Handicapped was allocated space in the Mount Vernon Mill building, and plans and specifications have been developed. The Library should have its first permanent home by December 1986. A highly successful third annual Library Legislative Day was held on February 29, with several hundred librarians, trustees, and Friends lobbying their legislators during a luncheon and private meetings. These efforts helped secure the passage of library legislation and network funding. Twelve South Carolinians participated in ALA's Library Legislative Day on April 16, presenting the case for continued funding for federal library programs, postal subsidies, and Free Matter for the Blind. District meetings were held with five of the South Carolina congressmen to reinforce these requests.

The State Library Board

The South Carolina State Library is an independent state agency governed by a library board of seven members named by the Governor, with one member from each Congressional District and one from the State-at-large. Members serve five-year terms and may be reappointed. During 1984-85, Mrs. Jean Bissell of Columbia resigned from the Board after two years of service to accept appointment to the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals. Dr. Carlanna Hendrick of Florence resigned after fifteen years of service on the State Library Board to accept appointment to the S.C. Arts Commission. With two vacancies for most of the year, the remaining five members made special efforts to provide leadership and direction. Members are:

1st Dist. - George H. Seago, Jr.....Summerville
2nd Dist. - Timothy Driggers, Chm.....Lexington
3rd Dist. - Hugh E. Vincent, Jr., V-Chm.....Anderson
4th Dist. - Buford Mobley.....Spartanburg
5th Dist. - Mrs. Margie King.....Chester
6th Dist. - vacant
At-Large - vacant

State Library Awards

Each year the South Carolina State Library honors individuals, organizations, or libraries which have made outstanding contributions to library service in South Carolina. Four Awards were presented during the 1984 annual conference of the South Carolina Library Association. Public Service Awards were presented to Representative Tom Mangum of Lancaster County in recognition of his leadership role in increasing State Aid for public libraries to $1.00 per capita and for his part in obtaining funding for the Chesterfield County Library Headquarters building; to Senator John C. Land, III, and his wife, Mrs. Marie Land, for their role in the establishment of the Clarendon County Library and in the fund raising campaign for its headquarters building; and to the Chester, S.C. News and Reporter for its strong editorial support for the campaign for a new headquarters building for the Chester County Public Library. The Charleston County Library received the Meritorious Service Award for its active involvement in community events such as the Spoleto Festival and Picolo Spoleto, Black History Month, and the Downtown Christmas Festival.

Volunteer Services

Volunteers contributing time and services benefit the State Library and particularly the Division for the Blind and Physically Handicapped. Members of boards and advisory councils represent user groups and aid in the development of policies and services. Individuals and groups perform tasks such as narration of recorded material, repairing Talking Book machines and headphones, preparation of newsletters and other mass mailings, and other tasks for which there is not sufficient staff time. Chapter 61 of the Telephone Pioneers of America, whose members have contributed more than 100 man-years of service was nominated by DBPH and was awarded the Governor's 1985 Volunteer Award.

During 1984-85 some seventy-six individuals contributed 1,304 hours of service as shown below:

State Library

Library Board	7 members	82 hours
LSCA Advisory Council	14 members	52 hours
Task Force on Library Automation & Networking	15 members	30 hours

Division for the Blind and Physically Handicapped

Advisory Council	11 members	36 hours
Telephone Pioneers	12 members	780 hours

Other Volunteers	21 members	324 hours

Based on formulas from the Governor's Office the service value of these volunteers to the State Library is more than $8,500.00. Cash donations bring the total volunteer investment in the agency to more than $10,700.00 in the past year. Staff time devoted to this program was approximately 90 hours.

ADMINISTRATIVE SERVICES

The Administrative functions of the South Carolina State Library are divided into four areas of support service: They are (1) Information/Clerical Support, (2) Finance/Accounting/Payroll, (3) Personnel, and (4) Procurement.

The Information/Clerical Support staff serves all departments through typing of correspondence, planning and reporting documents, newsletters, reference and interlibrary loan requests and other materials needed to carry out the State Library's program. Automation through the use of word processors and microcomputers has greatly increased the efficiency of this department. This department also serves as a clearinghouse for all incoming and outgoing mail. A central reception area is responsible for screening all incoming calls and referring them to the proper individual or department. All long distance calls are placed by the receptionist and a log of these calls is maintained for verfication against monthly telephone bill.

All financial transactions and records of state appropriations and federal funds under the Library Services and Construction Act are maintained by the Finance/Accounting/Payroll staff.

In cooperation with the Comptroller General's data processing staff, Phase I of Automated Accounting functions utilizing BARS Accounting System was implemented. Phase II will be fully implemented including general ledger accounts, subsidiary accounts, expenditure and revenue object codes.

The State Library administers its Personnel Program in compliance with the Division of Human Resource Management requirements. All personnel affairs of the State Library including recruitment, liaison with the HRM Office, maintenance of personnel records, implementation of the State Library's Affirmative Action and Equal Employment policies are handled by this department. Special attention was given to refining the Employee Performance Management System in FY 84-85.

The objective of the State Library's purchasing program is to purchase goods and services needed to carry out the mission of the State Library consistent with the State Consolidated Procurement Act of 1976. Procurement from certified minority businesses in South Carolina is made whenever possible. A total of 2,020 purchase orders were issued for FY 85 totalling $334,519.

TECHNICAL SERVICES

Information is the chief product of the State Library. Providing this information to state agencies, libraries, and individuals depends upon easy access to a good collection of materials. It is the Technical Services Department which coordinates the selection, ordering and processing of all materials for the State Library collection, including audio-visual materials and large-type books for the Division for the Blind and Physically Handicapped. The book stock is a one-copy, non-fiction collection, except for South Carolina titles. It includes periodicals and newspapers in both paper and microfilm, and services such as ERIC in microfiche. There are separate collections of both federal and state documents. Principal additions during the year are as follows:

Item	Additions	Total
Books	7,602	180,729
State Documents	2,848	36,553
Federal Documents in print	6,638	75,529

Item	Additions	Total
Federal Documents in microfiche	16,385	66,927
Microfilm reels	973	13,548
Microfiche	22,453	301,537

Being a member of Southeastern Library Network, a computerized network of libraries affiliated with the national network, OCLC, Inc., has made it possible to catalog new acquisitions quickly and efficiently and to continue input of our retrospective holdings into the data base. The number of retrospective titles added this year was 7,099, bringing the five-year total to 95,648 titles. Conversion is almost complete. This entire project has required no extra personnel and no extra time. Original cataloging was involved in 13% of this year's input. Increased requests for these older titles have been noted by Interlibrary Loan.

The number of new publications by state agencies continues to grow. An additional 195 state document titles, for a total of 783 new titles, were cataloged during the third year since depository legislation was enacted. Cataloging information continues to be supplied with each new title sent to the depository libraries, and the Checklist of South Carolina State Documents is issued quarterly with an annual cumulation. Testing for an automated production of the Checklist has been successfully concluded, so that 1985 will be the last completely manual production.

The State Library cooperates with the Library of Congress in the Name Authority Cooperative Project, an on-line authority file of names: personal, corporate or geographic; uniform titles; and meetings. This makes for uniformity in cataloging so that on-line access will be possible across the country. Names established by the State Library are entered by the Library of Congress into its on-line name authority used by the libraries of North America through the bibliographic utilities: OCLC, RLIN, WLN, and Utlas. The South Carolina State Library was the eighth state to join in this cooperative effort.

Microfilm of the January 1980 - June 1984 cumulation of additions to the Library's book collection was distributed to the county libraries. This will be the last issue of the manually filmed catalog.

Combining microfilm reels of periodicals by splicing more than one year on a reel has not only been a space saver, but has also resulted in more accurate holdings information.

FIELD SERVICES

In the State Library's Field Services Department, both generalist and specialist consultants work under the Director of Field Services to assist public libraries, library directors, boards of trustees, library staffs, library-related groups, and state agencies and institutions. The charge of all these consultants is the extension and improvement of public library service throughout the state and of library service in the state institutions.

Two specialist consultants work with all the public and state institutional libraries in the areas of children's and audio-visual services. Four generalist consultants (including the Field Services Director) serve as liaison between the State Library and the thirty-nine county and regional library systems which provide service to all of the state's forty-six counties. Each consultant works with specific county and regional libraries. The nature of the work which these generalists do with local libraries depends upon the level of library service in the system and on the training, expertise, and experience of individual librarians. The state institutional consultant performs a similar function in the thirty-five institutional libraries maintained by seven state departments and agencies.

In 1985 the Field Staff - via regular on-site visits, telephone, and correspondence - continued to advise and assist librarians, trustees, citizens, and administrators of state institutions to determine the library needs of their communities and ways to meet those needs. They provided in-service training on a one-to-one basis and in meetings and through statewide workshops; explored solutions for local problems with library directors and boards; and provided ideas and information on such topics as policies, staff problems, new staff orientation, budget preparation and presentation, recruiting of staff, and construction. In addition to field work, individual Field Staffers are responsible for supervising the administration of State Aid to public libraries and for monitoring grants-in-aid to public and state institutional libraries under the Library Services and Construction Act.

Consultants pursued continuing education opportunities during the year attending a seminar on the role of youth services in public libraries (New Jersey); a bookmobile workshop (Ohio); ALA annual conference in Chicago; the SCLA annual convention in Columbia; and the American Film Festival in New York City.

During fiscal 1984-85, the Field Services Librarians:

-- worked with the 39 public library systems serving 46 counties of the state and with the 35 institutional libraries maintained by seven departments and agencies;

-- made 404 field trips to public libraries;

-- made 61 field trips to institutional libraries;

-- attended 55 local library board meetings;

-- monitored library budgets including approximately $15 million in local funds;

-- administered $3,121,820 in State Aid grants to public libraries;

-- supervised LSCA projects providing approximately $575,848 in grants-in-aid to public libraries and $45,131 in grants to state institutional libraries;

-- collected statistics and prepared and distributed statewide the Annual Statistical Summary;

-- represented the State Library at local, state, and national conferences, conventions, workshops, professional associations, building dedications, civic organizations, and other state and local meetings;

-- provided recruiting, placement, and training services for public librarians and for librarians in the state institutions;

-- carried out additional duties either directly or through liaison activities.

State Aid for Public Libraries

The program of State Aid to public libraries has been funded continuously since 1943 as part of the State's responsibility for cultural and educational programs. For FY 85, the General Assembly appropriated $3,121,820 to the State Library for distribution to the public libraries at the rate of $1 per capita.

The regulations under which the funds are administered require that participating libraries be legally established, provide countywide service, maintain levels of county funding, and meet certain standards of service. Qualifying libraries may use State Aid funds to supplement staff salaries, to purchase books and audio-visual materials, to purchase or lease equipment, and to operate and maintain bookmobiles. These regulations ensure that State funds will not replace local funds and that the funds will be used to achieve a higher level of service. In 1985, all 46 counties qualified for State Aid funds.

Federal Aid to South Carolina Libraries

During 1984, Congress passed the Library Services and Construction Act amendments of 1984, Public Law 98-480, which reauthorized and extended LSCA through 1989. The Act includes six titles: Title I Public Library Services; Title II Public Library Construction; Title III Interlibrary

Cooperation and Resource Sharing; Title IV Library Service to Indian Tribes; Title V Foreign Language Materials Acquisition; and Title VI Library Literacy Programs.

The Library Services and Construction Act provides for improved public library service, the construction of public library buildings, the strengthening of state library agencies, and the promotion of interlibrary cooperation among all types of libraries. Emphasis is also placed on reaching the unserved and the inadequately served.

Title I of LSCA supports improved service to all public and institutional libraries and other special segments of the population. Grants-in-aid have been used to develop new programs of service and to improve the level of service in existing programs as well as to strengthen book and periodical collections. Continuing education grants for all levels of library personnel and for the recruitment of new staff has contributed to the upgrading of library personnel. Libraries are also reaching out to help the culturally disadvantaged, the functionally illiterate, the handicapped, and people who need special services. LSCA also provides grants to improve library service in state supported institutions. Grants have also been used to implement automation projects for library administrative services and the conversion of bibliographic records.

During FY 85, Title II provided $363,196 in funds for public library construction which contributed to improved service in the three county library systems which participated in the project. (See Public Library Construction.)

Title III programs have contributed to interlibrary cooperation and resource sharing. Grants have resulted in improved communications, bibliographic access, interlibrary loan, in-service training, and study and planning. During FY 85, Title III projects were designed to contribute to the long range goals of establishing a state bibliographic network. The building of a statewide database will help eliminate expensive duplication of materials and will make the state's library resources available to all South Carolinians. (See Network Development.)

Title IV has not been funded in South Carolina since there are no recognized Indian tribes.

Titles V and VI are to be administered as direct grants through the Department of Education and were not funded in FY 85.

In FY 85 the State Library was awarded $1,062,241 for Title I, $363,196 for Title II, and $252,613 for Title III.

Continuing Education for Librarians

Recognizing the need for well trained personnel, the State Library has consistently supported a program of continuing education for public and institutional library personnel at all levels and for public library trustees. Grants are awarded to attend conferences, seminars, and academic courses in librarianship. The State Library also plans and provides workshops in specific subject areas when it deems necessary.

In 1984-85, eight pre-professional librarians received grants to attend academic courses in the foundations of library and information science, computers in libraries, services to children and youth, and audio-visual materials. Twenty-one non-professional librarians representing sixteen county and regional libraries attended an eight-day course in Children's Services in Public Libraries offered by the University of South Carolina College of Library and Information Science and funded by the State Library.

Eleven professional librarians received grants to attend seminars in Advanced and Middle Management, Library Preservation, the Role of Youth Services in Public Libraries, the Twenty-Second Annual Clinic on Library Applications of Data Processing, and the Bookmobile Workshop.

State Library personnel also benefitted by attending workshops on business functions of microcomputers, pesonnel management, accounting, film services, and services to the blind and physically handicapped. The Division for the Blind and Physically Handicapped sponsored a workshop for public library personnel for the purpose of familiarizing them with the Division's services.

In April, the State Library sponsored a workshop on Financial Management for Public Library Administrators which was attended by 76 people and was designed to review regulations pertaining to state and federal programs.

Library Service for the Disadvantaged

Nineteen counties and regional library systems received grants to establish and extend library services to the disadvantaged during FY 85.

With one out of every four adults, 25 years of age and over, identified as functionally illiterate, continued emphasis was placed on the planning, development, and implementation of programs to combat the problems of illiteracy in South Carolina. Grants totaling over $118,000 were made to 15 libraries for programs which addressed reducing the illiteracy rate. In all projects, cooperation with local agencies and organizations such as the local office of adult education, literacy councils, recreational departments, health agencies, social services agencies, etc. was stressed.

A secondary focus in FY 85 was on library services to children. Grants were made to assist two county library systems develop outreach programs serving preschool children in child care centers. These programs involved working closely with the staff in the targeted child care centers to encourage and assist with the use of books and reading as part of the regularly planned activities. An additional grant was made to a county library system to develop a program for latch key children. This project depended heavily on interagency cooperation and served as a conduit for promoting this effective cooperation.

Providing adequate access to library service to the disadvantaged in rural and other isolated areas continues to be a serious problem in South Carolina and a grant was made to a county library system to assist with the purchasing of a bookmobile and the development of a program to serve the disadvantaged.

A grant was made to assist a weak county library system develop minimum levels of service and financial support prerequisite for outreach services. This grant was used to purchase equipment and materials needed in order to provide better service to all residents of a county where the adult illiteracy rate is 35% and the unemployment rate was 10.8% in 1984.

Audio-Visual Services

The audio-visual materials in the State Library's collection are comprised of 16mm motion pictures, 3/4" and 1/2" video tapes, 35mm slide/tape shows and 35mm filmstrips. 1,706 16mm films plus some 250 items in various audio-visual formats comprise the collection. These materials are used to strengthen the resources of South Carolina's public and state institutional libraries. In addition to serving these libraries, the State Library lends 16mm films to civic groups and organizations through public libraries. Audio-visual materials in the collection may be informational or recreational in content.

During FY 85, the Field Service Librarian for Audio-Visual Programs made 36 field trips to provide in-service training, technical assistance and help in programming and promoting the use of these materials. Four regional workshops featuring children's films were held. A new A-V catalog was prepared for publication in FY 86. A quarterly newsletter, dealing solely with information in non-print format, is mailed to every public library (including branches) and institutional library in the state.

In FY 85, public and state institutional libraries provided 8,357 film programs for their patrons, reaching a total audience of 115,357.

Library Service to Children

Early and continued exposure to books and libraries is important in helping children learn to read and study. Therefore, the South Carolina State Library is committed to helping public libraries provide the best possible service to children. The children's consultant helps public libraries with planning and evaluation, collection development, program planning, staff training, and public relations. The State Library has been instrumental in encouraging libraries to expand service to children in child care, and this year has given LSCA grants for two projects designed to help the staff of child development centers improve their knowledge of children's books and skills in reading to children.

During 1984-85, the children's consultant made fifty-eight field visits to public libraries. The DragonSummer Reading Program, a cooperative program of the State Library and public libraries designed to encourage reading throughout the summer, enrolled 31,100 children in the summer of 1984. For the first time, the State Library sponsored regional workshops to help libraries plan and implement the 1985 reading program.

The Early Childhood Media Clearinghouse lists non-print resources about early childhood development and education that are available for loan from state agencies, institutions, and organizations for use in staff and parent education. Users include child development centers, social service agencies, churches, schools, and other state agencies. The State Library is continuing to expand its collection in this area, and this year published a list of recent additions to the collection as it works to meet the needs of people working with young children throughout South Carolina.

Institutional Library Services

The South Carolina State Library continued to provide monetary and professional assistance to libraries in state-supported residential institutions in FY 85. This program of assistance includes the services of consultants, workshops for administrators and librarians, scholarships and workshops for library personnel, reference and interlibrary loan, grants-in-aid for the purchase of materials. The emphasis of this year's workshops has been on the long-range planning process and the development of state/local standards for the various kinds of institutional libraries. The educational, recreational and therapeutic resources and services of these libraries are considered as part of each institution's program of rehabilitation and educational development for residents.

In FY 85 thirty-five institutions, maintained by seven state departments and agencies, provided library service to residents and participated in this project. Twenty of these offer full service under the direction of qualified library personnel. Included in this number are eight adult correctional institutions. In addition, ten other adult correctional institutions are served from a central library division maintained by the Department of Corrections.

Four institutions too small to provide full-service library programs are served by a special project of the State Library. Two addictions centers, a vocational rehabilitation center for physically disabled persons, and a long-term care mental health facility annually receive collections of paper bound books especially selected for the use of their residents in recreation or therapy.

In FY 85 the State Institutional Library Consultant maintained liaison with the South Carolina Bibliotherapy Association and made 61 field trips to work with state institutional librarians and administrators.

Public Library Construction

LSCA Title II provided funding for eleven public library construction projects with FY 83 "Jobs Bill" funding. A total of $779,110 was appropriated. Planning and construction was carried out over a two year period. State Library staff worked with public library staffs, boards, and local officials in the writing of building programs, drawing of initial floor plans, critiques of architectural drawings, furniture layout, fund raising, and justifying need to funding authorities.

The following libraries have completed construction. Asterisks indicate projects for which final audits have not been completed.

Abbeville-Greenwood Regional Library. New branch building in the town of Ninety-Six.

Chesterfield County Library*. New headquarters building in town of Chesterfield.

Clarendon County Library. New headquarters building in town of Manning.

Colleton County Memorial Library*. Renovation and expansion of headquarters building in town of Walterboro.

Dillon County Library. New branch building in town of Lake View.

Edgefield County Library. New headquarters building in town of Edgefield.

Lancaster County Library. Energy efficiency project in headquarters building in town of Lancaster.

York County Library*. New branch building in town of Clover.

Three libraries are nearing completion. They are:

Chester County Library. New headquarters building in town of Chester.

Oconee County Library. Renovation and expansion of branch building in town of Seneca.

Union County Carnegie Library. Renovation and expansion of headquarters building in town of Union.

Congress again funded LSCA Title II in FY 85. South Carolina's appropriation is $383,196. Three libraries have submitted applications. A grant of $30,000 has been made to the Greenville County Library to accommodate new technologies in the headquarters building in Greenville. Beaufort County Library and Darlington County Library have submitted applications for construction of new headquarters buildings. While no grants have been made pending the beginning of construction, funds have been allocated for these two projects.

READER SERVICES

The Reader Services Department has primary responsibility for assisting in the use of reference and information resources of the State Library. Members of state government and state agencies make direct use of the library's resources, and citizens of the state have access to the library's services through their local public library. Users of academic, TEC, and special libraries may also borrow materials through interlibrary loan.

Reference and Information Services to State Government

The State Library's reference service is a major source for the information and research materials needed by state government personnel involved in the planning and administration of statewide programs. Reference librarians process research requests and assist in the use of the library collection. Requests vary from the very specific, such as the consumer price index or recent South Carolina population estimates, to more complex requests such as the authority of state government to limit importation of nuclear waste or how to improve reading and vocabulary skills for scholastic testing. The reference staff works closely with state government agencies in promoting the use of the State Library as a central research facility. Staff members conducted ten in-depth orientation programs on library services for more than 300 state employees during the year. One of the sessions was devoted to the use of legislative and regulatory materials in the State Library.

Efforts are made to identify areas of particular interest to state government personnel. One of the major purchases of the year was a collection of audio tapes on the topic of internal auditing which was acquired at the request of state agency auditors. By acquiring, housing, and managing such materials at one central location, the State Library hopes to reduce unnecessary duplication of expensive research materials in various state agencies.

In order to focus attention on new materials which are continually being added to the State Library's collection, New Resources, a selective listing of new books, journal articles, and government publications of interest to state government, is mailed on a monthly basis to 440 state employees throughout the year and all state legislators during the legislative session. State agency personnel and legislators may then borrow or obtain photocopy of any items listed in New Resources.

The State Library's collection is particularly strong in the area of education. These materials were highlighted during American Education Week in November when the State Library hosted an open house for employees of state government involved with the education process. Among the materials displayed was the Education Resources Information Collection (ERIC) of more than 260,000 documents on microfiche. Computerized searches of the ERIC database were demonstrated throughout the day. ERIC documents provide information on all aspects of education, and the collection is used extensively by teachers, school administrators, planners, students, and researchers. To further encourage use of the ERIC collection, the State Library published a brochure describing the collection.

One of the special sections which receives heavy use is the grantsmanship collection which the State Library administers in conjunction with the Foundation Center. This collection provides information on philanthropic foundations and corporations that make grants to individuals and organizations. Another area which receives constant use is census data information which is received by the State Library from the U.S. Bureau of the Census and the South Carolina State Data Center. The State Library is an affiliate of the State Data Center and has responsibility for providing convenient citizen access to census data.

For the second year, the State Library has offered computerized reference services as an enhancement and extension of its traditional reference service. The program, known as DATA SEARCH, offers access to DIALOG Information Services, Inc., which contains more than 100 million records in more than 200 databases and the LEXIS/NEXIS Service of Mead Data Central which includes current news, business, and regulatory information. These computerized reference files vary in content, offering directory type listings, bibliographic citations and abstracts, full text publications, or numeric data. Much information contained in DATA SEARCH databases is not available in printed sources at the State Library. Since the State Library does not receive appropriations to finance this service, the requestor must pay the associated charges which include the computer time and the telecommunications connection. The service is becoming more popular with state government personnel as they discover the advantages of the rapid, complete, and often time-saving research capabilities of DATA SEARCH. During the year, the library conducted 110 DATA SEARCH requests, representing an increase of more than 200% over the previous year.

In 1984-85, 14,273 individuals visited the library, and state employees and members of state government borrowed 26,635 books. The reference staff processed 8,083 reference questions and produced more than 14,400 pages of photocopy in response to requests.

Legislative Reference Service

The State Library provides a special information service for members of the General Assembly, legislative committee researchers, and legislative interns. Research requests vary from information needed for speech preparation to extensive background information on legislative issues. To assist in researching these needs, the State Library subscribes to two major services which report on significant governmental actions occurring in other states -- From the State Capitols and State Policy Reports. Staff members also draw upon all of the print and non-print resources of the library to answer requests. When the necessary materials are not available locally, the State Library can borrow books, periodicals, and documents from more than 4,000 libraries which participate in a nationwide interlibrary loan network. In the past year legislators and their researchers submitted 310 reference questions and borrowed 1,033 books. The State Library provided free of charge 4,360 pages of photocopy in response to legislative reference questions.

Interlibrary Loan Service

The State Library supports the provision of library service to all South Carolina citizens through its Interlibrary Loan Service, acting as the central component of a statewide network designed to supplement and coordinate library resources within the state. The State Library works with local libraries to provide books and data not available to South Carolinians in their own communities. The research collection of the State Library has been developed as a source of information and materials upon which local libraries can draw, since no single library can be expected to supply all of the items which might be requested by its patrons. Requests submitted to the State Library reflect the efforts of local libraries to meet the diverse informational needs of citizens interested in improving the quality of daily life, educating themselves and their children, and understanding local, state, national, and international affairs. To supplement their basic collections, local libraries may ask for assistance in providing everything from sources of detailed statistical information to books on American art too expensive for local purchase.

During 1984-85, the Interlibrary Loan Service filled a total of 27,835 requests - 6,261 reference and 21,575 title requests - and supplied 27,193 books and 21,127 pages of photocopy in response to these requests.

Public and institutional libraries currently have direct access to the services of the State Library through an In-WATS telephone line which allows interlibrary loan requests to be submitted and processed rapidly, with most book request transactions being completed in 24 hours. Interlibrary Loan received and transcribed 5,263 In-WATS calls during 1984-85.

Microfilm copies of the State Library catalog have been placed in public libraries throughout South Carolina to enable local librarians to determine the holdings of the State Library as quickly as possible. The final supplement to this catalog, covering acquisitions from January 1980 to June 1984, was filmed and distributed to libraries in August 1984. The State Library anticipates providing alternate methods of access to its holdings in the future, which will reflect new communication capabilities made possible by changing technology. Public, academic, and special libraries which are members of the Southeastern Library Network (SOLINET) can already determine the holdings of the State Library through the use of an on-line database. The second computer-produced microfiche edition of the State Library's periodical list was also completed. This microfiche edition was again issued in two formats, with the first being a list of State Library holdings only. The State Library distributed this list of periodical holdings to South Carolina public and academic libraries in April 1985. The second format is a union list of the holdings of the State Library, the Richland County Public Library, and Columbia College, resulting from a cooperative project on the part of these Columbia-area institutions.

Since local libraries may request research or technical materials not owned by the State Library, sources have been acquired which can be used to identify the holdings of other libraries within the state and the nation. These include various union lists of both books and periodicals. Membership in the Southeastern Library Network (SOLINET) gives the State Library access to a computerized database of more than 12 million items held by 4,900 libraries. There are 42 other SOLINET member libraries in South Carolina. The State Library used this database and its other sources to verify locations for 861 books, most of which were not owned by libraries in this state, and supplied this information to all types of libraries within South Carolina. The Interlibrary Loan Service also used SOLINET and its other resources to support the library's services for state agency researchers and planners and legislators by locating and borrowing materials not available in its own collection. Through SOLINET, the State Library participated in the OCLC Interlibrary Loan Subsystem, using this computer access to other member libraries both to receive and place requests for materials. The State Library received requests for materials from libraries in 48 other states, Canada, and Europe. Many of these requests were for materials relating to South Carolina or for state documents. To enhance standard research methods, Interlibrary Loan personnel employed additional computer-assisted reference techniques to utilize the resources of the library's DATA SEARCH service.

The State Library has a continuing interest in the quality of reference service available to South Carolina library patrons. The library sponsored three one-day workshops on basic library public service techniques for 100 staff members of the Beaufort, Berkeley, Charleston, Dorchester, and Greenville County Libraries. The workshops were designed as part of the in-service training programs of these libraries. To encourage maximum use of the interlibrary loan services available to public libraries, the Interlibrary Loan Librarian made field visits to four libraries. In addition, the Librarian held individual meetings at the State Library with reference staff members from 10 public libraries to discuss resources and policies.

The State Library, committed to the concept of resource sharing among all types of libraries in this state, continued to provide interlibrary loan service to South Carolina academic and special libraries in addition to its traditional services to public libraries. Academic and special libraries sent 4,027 interlibrary loan requests to the State Library, borrowed 3,726 books and obtained 7,301 pages of photocopy. Other cooperative efforts included participation by two State Library staff members in the Interlibrary Loan Protocol Committee formed by the South Carolina Library Association to study loan relationships among all types of South Carolina libraries. The Interlibrary Loan Librarian discussed State Library resources, policies, and procedures at a statewide medical library interlibrary loan seminar sponsored by the University of South Carolina School of Medicine in December 1984.

Government Documents

The South Carolina State Library has been a selective depository of federal publications since 1970, currently receiving 51% of all publications available through the U.S. Superintendent of Documents' depository program.

Between 1982-1984, the State Library coordinated development of the State Plan for Federal Depository Libraries which involved all seventeen depository libraries in South Carolina. The purpose of the Plan is to improve the collections and services of these libraries for users of federal publications. As a result of the plan, the libraries of Clemson University, the University of South Carolina, and Winthrop College are jointly serving as a federal regional depository, receiving among themselves all federal publications available through the depository program. The main benefit of the Plan to libraries involved is that discarding of old, out-of-date, or unused publications to one of the three cooperating libraries will now be possible. The State Library administers the Plan.

The State Library also is responsible for the State Documents Depository System which began in July, 1982, after passage of the State Documents Depository Act. All branches, agencies, and institutions of state government are required by the Act to send fifteen copies of their publications to the State Library for cataloging and retention and for distribution to affiliate depository libraries. The State Library and the Department of Archives and History coordinate the state publications collection at the State Library with the Records Retention Program for state agencies administered by Archives to insure availability of information without duplication.

During 1984-85, 1,307 separate publications were sent to each affiliate depository library. Of these, 341 were new titles and 793 were additions to serial titles already cataloged. The remaining 173 titles distributed were considered too ephemeral to be cataloged.

Affiliate state publications depository libraries in South Carolina are Clemson University, College of Charleston, Francis Marion College, Greenville County Library, Lander College, South Carolina State College, Spartanburg County Library, USC-Beaufort, USC-Coastal, and Winthrop College. The Library of Congress and the Center for Research Libraries in Chicago also receive one copy of South Carolina state publications.

Library Network Development

A major step in South Carolina library development occurred during the year when the State Library issued a request for a proposal for an automated online information system which would serve local libraries, state government, and South Carolina citizens. This document outlined the basic system required for the implementation and development of the South Carolina Library Network. The State Library has been planning for the South Carolina network since 1979. The envisioned network will permit libraries to use sophisticated automation and telecommunication systems to efficiently access the holdings of libraries throughout the state, thereby enabling any South Carolinian to draw upon the state's total library resources for needed information. A nationally known library automation consultant was retained in October to assist the State Library staff in planning the network. The State Library also established and filled the position of Coordinator of Automation Services. This individual will have responsibility for coordinating overall network operations as well as providing consultant service to local libraries on matters of library automation.

Endorsements of the network concept were received from all professional library groups in the state as well as from the South Carolina Task Force on Library Automation and Networking. This Task Force made up of librarians representing libraries of all types provided guidance to assure the network would benefit the libraries for whom it is designed. During the planning process, the State Library worked closely with the Division of Information Resource Management to develop specifications for the network which would be compatible with the state plans for technology and telecommunications. The request for the initial phase of the South Carolina network and for the automation of internal functions at the State Library was issued in April. Proposals were received from nine of the major library automation vendors. Evaluations of proposals began in June, and selection and installation will be performed in the next fiscal year.

One of the most important factors in library automation is the development of a computerized database containing the records of the library holdings. Presently, 42 South Carolina libraries in the state are members of the Southeastern Library Network (SOLINET) which enables these libraries to add all their new titles to a machine-readable database. To further encourage participation in SOLINET, the State Library provided an LSCA Title III grant to the Horry County Library. Another factor to be considered in database development is the conversion of older titles. This process of converting older records to machine-readable format is known as retrospective conversion. The State Library has provided partial funding for demonstration projects of retrospective conversion activities at the Fairfield County Library, the Georgetown County Library and the Newberry-Saluda Regional Library. These projects are helping to determine a cost effective, practical means for retrospective conversion in smaller libraries.

The bibliographic control of South Carolina newspapers has been a long neglected area. Newspapers are a source of valuable and unique information concerning a geographic area. In conjunction with the Thomas Cooper Library of the University of South Carolina, the State Library has provided partial funding to employ a researcher to identify and develop a bibliographic database of South Carolina newspaper holdings. This database will be incorporated into the South Carolina Library Network.

LIBRARY SERVICES TO THE BLIND AND PHYSICALLY HANDICAPPED

Providing library service to any South Carolinian who is unable to read conventional print because of a visual or physical handicap is the responsibility of the South Carolina State Library, Division for the Blind and Physically Handicapped. Books and magazines are available in recorded formats (disc and cassette tape), braille, and large print. The South Carolina State Library administers this service in cooperation with the Library of Congress, National Library Service for the Blind and Physically Handicapped. The majority of readers utilize recorded books, and for them DBPH provides a sound reproducer (either a record player or a cassette playback machine). Recorded books and machines are made available by the National Library Service. Braille service is provided to approximately 100 persons under contract with the North Carolina State Library. The large-type print collection has been made available with LSCA funds and consists of 6,000 titles.

In fiscal year 1985 the library provided service to 8,070 individuals. A total of 134,836 books and magazines were circulated. Not reflected in these totals are about 73,000 magazines received directly by the readers from the producers under contract to the Library of Congress, National Library Service for the Blind and Physically Handicapped.

Because services are primarily via mail from Cayce, South Carolina, a large-print newsletter also available on cassette tape and an In-WATS telephone line with an after hours recording device serve as the principal means of communication. The In-WATS line recorded 6,098 calls using 310.5 hours of time.

Public libraries help promote the service by identifying potential users and assisting new readers by demonstrating how equipment works and explaining how the program operates. A second annual workshop for public library personnel on library services to the handicapped was held in 1984. In five county libraries -- Anderson, Charleston, Florence, Greenville, and Spartanburg -- the State Library maintains browsing collections of several hundred recorded books. Public libraries are encouraged to involve handicapped individuals in local programming.

Since the State Library began providing this service directly in 1973, the service has continually increased. In 1973 the book collection consisted of 10,000 volumes. In 1985, 17,199 books were added to the collection which now totals 153,839 including large print. The South Carolina cassette collection is made up of titles recorded by volunteers. It is primarily titles about South Carolina or by South Carolina authors, but other volunteer-produced titles are included. This collection now numbers 255. In 1973, 1,800 people were served; now 5,521 adults and 553 juveniles are served with an additional 1,040 being served via 260 deposit collections located in nursing homes, hospitals, schools, and adult day-care centers.

It is estimated that 43,705 South Carolinians are potentially eligible for the service. The growth in readership is expected to level off at about 15,000. Growth in readership will require a comparable growth in the size of the collection.

Automation of the patron mailing list and machine inventory file has been accomplished using three microcomputers and word processing equipment. Future plans include additional equipment for automated circulation which will allow additional patron contact by DBPH staff along with increased book and magazine distribution. About 26,000 square feet have been assigned DBPH in the Mount Vernon Mill Complex. Plans have been developed and the move from the cramped 8,050 square feet now used is scheduled for early 1987.

DBPH continued its outreach efforts by personal appearances and speaking engagements and by the continuation of an Advisory Council which adopted By-Laws. The council is made up of patrons and other providers of service to the handicapped. Even though DBPH was unable to participate in the National Library Service's Public Relations Program (which utilizes public service announcements for radio and television stations) due to cassette machine shortages in addition to lack of space and staff, the projected 1,000 new readers per year was exceeded.
